

Hydropower is one of the cleanest forms of electric generation

HydroPOWER

the power of moving water

Clean power for a secure energy future

Source: Energy Policy. 2002. Life-cycle assessment of electricity generation options.

Avoided Emissions

More than 160 million tons of carbon emissions were avoided in the United States in 2004 when 268 million megawatt-hours of hydropower were generated.¹

¹ Using a national average electricity emission factor of .6 metric tons of avoided CO₂ emission per megawatt hour at a non-emitting power generator.

